Practical Ideas and Strategies

Learn practical ideas and strategies to boost the overall success of your special education program for students with learning disabilities in this dynamic, two-day institute led by national presenter and author HOLLY PORTER. This hands-on experience will equip you and your team with strategies to help your special education teachers renew and refine their skills to better support students with learning disabilities. Learn practical methods for assessing and improving instruction based on outcomes for students with learning disabilities. This two-day opportunity will give you the time and space you need to critically examine your current special education program— including resource rooms and co-teaching approaches— through the lens of the latest research on high-leverage practices. Learn how to implement meaningful improvements that will have a lasting impact on your program and your students.

Over the course of two days, you'll learn proven strategies that drive greater success for students with learning disabilities and explore how to intentionally implement them in your school or district. You and your team will walk away with a wealth of actionable ideas and a comprehensive digital resource handbook to support your implementation. Don't miss this chance to collaborate with Holly and your fellow educators and leaders to refresh your approach and maximize achievement for your students with learning disabilities.

A Practical, Two-Day Institute Focused on Supporting Students with Learning Disabilities

You will learn how to build on the success of your current program, identify the key components that have the greatest impact on student achievement, and find specific areas you need to target for implementation and improvement. Leave equipped with effective strategies and ready-to-use practices to help you accelerate achievement for all students with learning disabilities in your schools and classrooms.

Develop a Plan to Improve Your Special Education Program ... Elevate Your Educators' Expertise to Better Service Students with Learning Disabilities

Discover the attributes of highly effective special education programs and how to integrate them into your own program. Over two immersive days, you'll gain a wealth of strategies to increase success for students with learning disabilities, implement powerful collaborative instructional techniques that address diverse learning needs, and improve access to the curriculum for students with learning disabilities.

Go beyond the fundamentals of Specially Designed Instruction with brain-based engagement and assessment methods designed to better motivate and support students with learning disabilities. Learn how to enhance co-taught classrooms with smart planning strategies, streamline data collection for IEPs and classroom instruction, and strengthen collaboration for better student outcomes. You'll leave with practical, research-backed techniques and an extensive digital resource handbook to help you bring these strategies to life in your school or district.

A Message From Institute Leader, Holly Porter

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

HOLLY PORTER is an engaging and enthusiastic presenter and experienced special education teacher in grades Pre-K to high school settings. She is the author of Increasing the Success of Your SPECIAL EDUCATION PROGRAM for Students with Learning Disabilities, the digital resource handbook you will receive by attending this two-day institute. Holly provides outstanding professional development for educators serving students with learning disabilities. She has extensive experience coaching teachers serving students with learning disabilities, modeling effective instructional pedagogy and co-teaching approaches for teachers, and providing professional development on high-leverage practices. She is known for her passion and dedication to meeting the needs of students with diverse learning needs. Her institutes are exciting, hands-on, and collaborative. You won't want to miss this unique opportunity for two days filled with intentional, student-specific strategies and ideas to strengthen your special education program for your students with learning disabilities.

Dear Colleague:

Supporting students with learning disabilities is both meaningful and rewarding, but comes with challenges and responsibilities for the educators that serve them. With the wide range of learning disabilities and unique strengths among our students, as special educators we require a diverse set of effective and intentionally designed strategies and resources to ensure every learner reaches their full potential. Building a strong special education program involves being better equipped with tools that not only boost individual student success for students with learning disabilities but also improves our impact across our schools and districts.

I designed this two-day institute to help special education teachers, school leaders, and teams reach actionable strategies that they can implement immediately to help boost school success for students with learning disabilities. Over the course of two interactive days, you will gain valuable insights, refine your instructional approach, and leave feeling inspired and confident in your ability to create a meaningful plan for your classroom, school, and district.

I invite you to join me and your fellow special education colleagues from across the country as we collaborate, share expertise, and discuss innovative solutions to strengthen learning experiences for our students with learning disabilities. I plan to share proven techniques, resources, and practical strategies that can be easily customized to meet the needs of your students and programs. The result will be a plan of action for successfully transferring and tailoring these strategies to meet the needs of your own settings.

I look forward to seeing you there! Sincerely,

Holly Porter

P.S. You will leave this two-day institute with a refreshed toolbox to help you better support your students with learning disabilities!

"In two interactive days, you will gain valuable insights, refine your instructional approach, and leave feeling inspired and confident in your ability to create a meaningful plan for your classroom, school, and district."
