Practical Ideas and Strategies

Increasingly we see young children with challenging behaviors demonstrating a combination of behavioral issues and academic struggles that impact their ability to positively engage in their daily learning opportunities. How can we as educators most effectively identify, understand, and address these combined challenges? In this NEW, interactive seminar, outstanding educator and national presenter ADAM PETERSON will share developmentally appropriate practices to help you work smarter, not harder to reduce challenging behaviors, maintain smooth daily routines and schedules, and increase success for your PreK–2nd grade students. Explore a wealth of practical, educator-friendly strategies that simultaneously work to address challenging behaviors and academic struggles. Gain self-care practices for counteracting compassion fatigue so you can continue to best help students with challenging behaviors. Discover developmentally appropriate ways to teach and substitute appropriate behaviors for challenging ones, and strategies for what to do when reinforcements no longer work. Plus, much, much more! Join Adam for a day full of proven, use-tomorrow, developmentally appropriate strategies and techniques to help you address and manage challenging behaviors.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Adam Peterson

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

ADAM PETERSON is an award-winning primary grades teacher, best-selling author and internationally recognized speaker. After spending more than a decade teaching in early learning classrooms, Adam now also uses his knowledge and talents to inspire, educate and motivate colleagues working in grades PreK-2 to apply more developmentally appropriate ways to manage their most challenging students. Adam is the author of the best-selling book, Teach, Play, Learn!, as well as the author of many children's books. He is also the author of Dealing With Challenging Behaviors Using Developmentally Appropriate Strategies (PreK-2), the extensive digital resource handbook you will receive at this dynamic one-day training. You will leave Adam's seminar with a wealth of developmentally appropriate techniques and strategies for addressing and managing challenging behaviors in your PreK-2 students.

Dear Colleague:

Managing challenging behaviors in preschool to 2nd grade students can be a daunting task. Have you ever felt overwhelmed? I certainly have, more than once. When I glanced at my classroom at the end of the day feeling discouraged and defeated, the only solution that came to mind was to throw in the towel. All I wanted was to teach, but it seemed like an impossible task. If you've experienced similar frustrations, please know that you are not alone.

I am writing to invite you to a seminar where I will share numerous developmentally appropriate strategies and techniques that are practical and easy to incorporate. These strategies have proven to be effective in reducing challenging behaviors and breaking the cycle of recurring disruptive actions that hinder productive teaching and learning. My goal is to provide support by equipping you with proven techniques for addressing and managing the challenging behaviors of your young students.

Throughout our time together, everything I present will be both practical and developmentally appropriate. You will learn methods to help young students regulate their thoughts, emotions, and behaviors, and techniques to enhance their ability to focus and remain engaged. We will explore approaches to defuse difficult episodes and rebuild trusting relationships during and after challenging situations. Additionally, we will delve into self-care practices that combat compassion fatigue, enabling you to continue providing the best support to students with challenging behaviors.

I am thrilled to share my absolute best ideas for helping your students develop and maintain the skills and behaviors they need for success. Get ready for an interactive day filled with developmentally appropriate strategies, techniques, practices, and resources that you can implement immediately with your young students.

I eagerly look forward to meeting you at the seminar!

Sincerely,

Adam Peterson

P.S. By transforming the life of just one student this year, your time will have been well spent. Invest a day with me and gain practical, developmentally appropriate strategies that can truly make a difference in the lives of your young students!

"These strategies have proven to be effective in reducing challenging behaviors and breaking the cycle of recurring disruptive actions that hinder productive teaching and learning."

What Your Colleagues Say About Adam Peterson
