Practical Ideas and Strategies

This timely seminar by outstanding presenter YAMILEY JEAN-SIMON is filled with new, effective, updated co-teaching approaches and clear implementation methods. Teaching today's increasingly diverse student population, including students with disabilities or other special needs, comes with the challenge of meeting the needs of all students, without neglecting any of them. One of the most effective ways to accomplish this goal is to partner professionals through co-teaching.

In this lively, interactive seminar you will learn the keys for general education teachers and specialists to successfully co-teach in the same classroom or shared teaching space. You will also learn dozens of practical tips, including new, innovative ideas for implementing the co-teaching models, collaborative lesson planning, efficient use of precious class time, and working with a wide range of student ability levels in the classroom. This outstanding seminar will also include proven instructional strategies for use within co-teaching partnerships.

You will leave this seminar with dozens of highly practical, effective strategies and a co-teaching digital resource handbook to help improve your effectiveness in meeting the needs of all your students. You will be equipped with many new ideas for creating a more dynamic and effective co-taught classroom that fosters greater student success.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Yamiley Jean-Simon

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

YAMILEY JEAN-SIMON is an experienced co-teacher and presenter. Yamiley first started utilizing the Marilyn Friend co-teaching strategies in inclusive classrooms as a special education teacher. She experienced such effective results that she returned for more training in order to become the district's co-teaching trainer. Over the years, she has collected a wide variety of strategies and tactics to leverage the co-teaching partnership in a wide variety of classrooms. As a Special Education leader, Yamiley enjoyed helping teachers learn her classroom tested strategic supports tailored for student growth and success. She is also the author of Strengthening Your CO-TEACHING: Practical Ideas for Improving Student Success, the comprehensive digital resource handbook each participant will receive at the seminar.

Dear Colleague:

Have you ever wondered how you can better meet the wide range of student needs within a co-taught classroom? Are you curious as to which co-teaching models will support your students best? Do you find it challenging to create a co-taught classroom or online teaching environment in which all adults are best utilized? These are some of the questions and challenges faced by many educators in today's co-taught classrooms and online learning settings.

I have designed this unique seminar to inform and excite you with many highly effective strategies and proven techniques for better supporting your students in a co-taught classroom. It will also provide you with many tools to enhance your co-teaching toolkit, making this seminar meaningful for new co-teachers and experienced co-teachers alike.

During our day together, I will share dozens of strategies you can use immediately in your co-taught classroom. You will learn proven strategies for better meeting the needs of diverse learners while engaging in best practices for co-teaching.

You will leave this seminar feeling empowered to incorporate what you have learned into your own classroom or online teaching experience!

Sincerely,

Yamiley Jean-Simon

P.S. You will leave this seminar with many co-teaching techniques and strategies to help you better serve the needs of all your students.

"You will learn proven strategies for better meeting the needs of diverse learners while engaging in best practices for co-teaching."
