A Message From Seminar Leader, Evilia Jankowski

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

EVILIA JANKOWSKI is an outstanding school nurse and national presenter with a broad and extensive base of school nursing experience. Evilia has pursued her passion for public health, serving as a school nurse at elementary, middle, and high schools. Evilia has also served as the State School Nurse Consultant in her home state. She has also served as president of her state association of school nurses. She is one of two Epinephrine Resource School Nurses in her state and has worked on her state asthma program for more than 25 years. Evilia has been instrumental in addressing the challenges of supporting students with diabetes across her state, where there is not a school nurse in every school. Evilia is a highly sought speaker on the topic of training and implementing school Medical Emergency Response Teams (MERT) and school medical emergencies. She is also the author of SCHOOL NURSES: Best Practices for Managing School Medical Emergencies, the extensive digital resource handbook you will receive at her seminar. Join Evilia for a fast-paced, learning-rich, practical day full of best practices for successfully managing school medical emergencies.

Dear Colleague:

Medical emergencies occur in our schools – and inevitably, they happen when we least expect them. Because these situations are so unpredictable, it's impossible to master all the skills necessary for every response. Yet we know when we don't practice a skill regularly, we get rusty. What if you had the tools to refresh your skills?

I've designed this seminar to sharpen your skills in identifying and responding effectively to school medical emergencies. You'll learn strategies to develop comprehensive protocols for the best response to any medical emergency. We'll explore practical resources for equipping school staff with the training they need. Gain easy-to-incorporate emergency response strategies to enhance and strengthen existing school safety plans.

Since up to 25% of childhood injuries occur at school, this seminar will enhance your ability to quickly identify emergent injuries. I will share easy-to-remember mnemonics that will sharpen your assessment skills and save valuable time in responding to serious injuries. In addition, you'll receive the latest updates and best practices for providing care until EMS arrives.

I'm thrilled to spend the day with you, sharing the best resources for boosting your confidence and knowledge as the leader of medical emergency response in your schools. I want to help you be at your best when your workday is interrupted by a medical emergency.

Sincerely,

Evilia Jankowski, MSA, BSN, RN, NCSN

P.S. I look forward to sharing the best practices and resources for achieving positive outcomes in responding to school medical emergencies.

"I'm thrilled to spend the day with you, sharing the best resources for boosting your confidence and knowledge as the leader of medical emergency response in your schools."
