Full Morning Session • 9:15 – 11:50 AM

A-1: Improving the Behaviors of Attention-Seeking and Challenging Students in the Co-Taught Classroom – Cindy Jones

Students with challenging behaviors are becoming more prevalent in our schools and more difficult to teach than ever. Explore the neuroscience that drives these attention-seeking and challenging behaviors. Examine the WHY of student behavior and effective and practical strategies for addressing them. Explore tools and specific strategies to help diminish attention-seeking, power, and revenge behaviors by leveraging your Co-Teaching models.

First 70-Minute Morning Sessions 9:15 – 10:25 AM

CHOOSE ONE: A-2 or A-3

A-2: Level-Up Your Instructional Design Using the Six Co-Teaching Formats

– Petra Nelson

Co-Teaching is much more than two teachers occupying the same space in a classroom. The one-teach one-support format is only a beginning for Co-Teachers, so let's explore ways to move beyond that. This interactive session will launch your thinking and current Co-Teaching practice by examining the formats and deciding which ones will yield higher outcomes for your students.

A-3: Co-Assessment: The Missing Piece of Your Co-Teaching Practice – Glynis Shulters

Co-planning and co-instruction get most of the attention, but co-assessment is where inclusion becomes measurable—and where both teachers own the results. In this practical session, discover how two teachers can share responsibility for designing, administering, and analyzing both formative and summative assessments. Walk away with ready-to-use student work and data analysis templates, ideas for UDL-aligned assessments and testing accommodations, and tools for embedding supports without lowering rigor—so every student has an authentic way to show what they know.

Second 70-Minute Morning Sessions 10:40 – 11:50 AM

CHOOSE ONE: A-4 or A-5

A-4: Co-Planning is the “Meat and Potatoes” of Co-Teaching – Petra Nelson

Commit to your Co-Teaching partnership by learning new ways to make the most of your co-planning time. This session will investigate creative ways to find time to co-plan and maximize the time provided. Learn the conditions for establishing more effective co-planning and ways to strengthen your partnership through planning. Walk away with practical ideas for being more prepared to Co-Teach and ready to celebrate your success!

A-5: Using AI to Plan Grouping Structures for the Co-Taught Classroom

– Glynis Shulters

Flexible grouping is one of Co-Teaching's highest leverage moves and one of the most time-consuming to plan well. Learn how AI tools can dramatically shorten planning time while sharpening your instructional decisions. Explore how to prompt AI to analyze data, suggest skill-based groupings, and map groups to Co-Teaching formats. Go a step further and discover how to use AI to generate differentiated activities, leveled materials, and time estimates that make stations and alternative teaching doable. Walk away with prompt templates and the confidence to use AI as your Co-Planning partner!

“This was the most informative and engaging PD I have attended in years!”

– Tracy Mellini, Teacher

“Practical forms, ideas and tools to make Co-Teaching better for me, my Co-Teacher and my students.”

– Carolyn Strauch, HS Teacher

Choose ONE Full Afternoon Session OR TWO 70-Minute Sessions
One mid-afternoon break

Full Afternoon Session • 1:05 – 3:35 PM

B-1: Co-Teaching for Reading Fluency in Any Content Area – Glynis Shulters

Fluency is one of the most overlooked needs of struggling readers at every grade level. This session deep dives into how Co-Teaching can be embedded into content instruction (math, science, social studies, or ELA). Learn how to help students build better fluency using authentic text from the unit itself, delivered through targeted grouping structures that put both teachers to work in more purposeful, differentiated ways. Design grouping plans tailored to your grade level, practice fluency routines together, and walk away with a fluency toolkit you can use tomorrow!

First 70-Minute Afternoon Sessions 1:05 – 2:15 PM

CHOOSE ONE: B-2 or B-3

B-2: Strengthening Your Behavior Intervention Plans – Cindy Jones

When behavior intervention plans are not working effectively, things can quickly get out of hand in classrooms. Fortunately, there are a variety of Co-Teaching strategies that can be implemented to increase the strength of your behavior plan. In this highly practical session, we will explore six of these to help you better support behavior outcomes in both the Co-Taught settings.

B-3: Go From “Sit and Get” to “Get and Go” – Petra Nelson

Energize your Co-Taught math class by integrating research-based math strategies that support all learners in your classroom. Math can be a difficult concept for many students to grasp; however, the power of two teachers can make math more interactive, engaging and fun for students K-12. Come to this session and walk away with new strategies you can use the next day!

Second 70-Minute Afternoon Sessions 2:25 – 3:35 PM

CHOOSE ONE: B-4 or B-5

B-4: Co-Teaching Strategies for Dealing with Disrespectful and Disengaged Students – Cindy Jones

Discover proactive, de-escalating and redirecting Co-Teaching strategies that will reduce and prevent disrespectful and off-task behavior from taking away your valuable teaching time. This session will help you and your Co-Teaching partner get on the same page for handling disruptions. Learn how to avoid power struggles, redirect more effectively, and use the same language your Co-Teaching partner does to maintain consistency... Strategies you will be able use immediately!

B-5: Flexible Groupings of Students in the Co-Taught Classroom are Infinite – Petra Nelson

This session looks at the power of flexible groupings within the Co-Taught classroom. Explore the many ways students can be grouped according to the lesson and desired goal. You will discover how to create more cooperative learning lessons for students that will move them from working “just” in a group to collaborating as a unified group for improved outcomes.

Day Two

MORNING SESSIONS • 8:30 – 11:15 AM

Choose ONE Full Morning Session OR TWO 75-Minute Sessions
One mid-morning break

Full Morning Session • 8:30 – 11:15 AM

C-1: Strengthen Your Co-Teaching Partnership with Practical Strategies to Boost Collaboration and Parity – Petra Nelson

Equality in the Co-Teaching relationship is fundamental in establishing an effective Co-Taught classroom. Boost your collaboration skills by exploring essential tools and practical strategies that support the parity of instruction in your Co-Taught classroom. Participants will investigate ways to build the Co-Teacher partnerships through communication, trust, problem solving, and a growth mindset. Leave this session with ideas to create and maintain a stronger Co-Teaching partnership throughout the school year.

First 75-Minute Morning Sessions 8:30 – 9:45 AM

CHOOSE ONE: C-2 or C-3

C-2: The Co- Teachers' Role in Reducing Student Anxiety – Cindy Jones

In a recent survey, educators reported that anxiety related misbehavior are major issues with students today. We'll explore these issues and various Co-Teaching strategies to help reduce them, including what to do about profanity, gaslighting, arguing, drawing boundaries, and lack of social skills. Discover the best way to calm down someone having a panic attack. You can use this valuable information in the Co-Taught classroom and life.

C-3: Graduating from One Teach, One Assist: Moving Into One Teach/One Support-and-Switch and Team Teaching – Glynis Shulters

One Teach/One Assist is where most Co-Teaching partnerships begin— and where too many stay. This session offers a concrete graduation path into two higher-leverage formats: One Teach/One Support and Switch, and Team Teaching. Explore natural switch points within a lesson (Do Now, guided practice, modeling) and team-teaching variations like One Teach/One Summarize and One Teach/One Interpret. Walk away with a plan to move your partnership off autopilot and into instruction where both teachers lead.

Second 75-Minute Morning Sessions 10:00 – 11:15 AM

CHOOSE ONE: C-4 or C-5

C-4: Co-Teaching for Helping Students Overcome the Challenges of ADHD, Executive Function Deficits, and Poor Self-Regulation Skills – Cindy Jones

Students with ADHD often have difficulty with concentration, distraction, impulsivity, and "time-blindness" among other challenges. Discover strategies to help your students with ADHD experience more academic and social success. Learn how their brains are different from neurotypical students and how you can best support them. We'll explore helpful behavior interventions, tools, organizational tips, comorbidity, and executive function and self-regulation skills you can use immediately.

C-5: Co-Teaching as Professional Development: A Practical System for Growing as Teachers Together – Glynis Shulters

Done well, Co-Teaching is the most powerful job-embedded professional development in our profession. The special educator builds content rigor and grade-level expertise; the general educator builds expertise in accommodations, scaffolding, and differentiation. But how do you know if your partnership is actually working— and where do you need to pivot? This session gives you practical tools to assess the health of your Co-Teaching relationship, reflect with intention, and embed that reflection into your weekly planning rhythm. Leave with partnership self-assessments, targeted observation prompts, and a reflection protocol that fits into your agenda— so your collaboration becomes measurable growth you both carry forward.

Lunch Break • 11:15 AM – 12:30 PM • (On your own; time to network!)

CHOOSE ONE: D-1, D-2 or D-3

D-1: Co-Teaching for How Today's Students Learn! – Cindy Jones

Current brain research reveals the major ways that students learn today. Discover how to teach using movement, interactive small group discussions, visuals, art, music, and social interaction to engage students and cement content into long-term memory. You will take away a variety of practical examples well-suited for Co-Taught classrooms.

D-2: Differentiation Works When You Work It! – Petra Nelson

Differentiation is responsive teaching. Participants will explore ways to support students through differentiation in the Co-Taught classroom. Ways to differentiate the environment, product, process, and content to improve student outcomes will be discussed. Take away valuable strategies that you can implement tomorrow in your classroom.

D-3: Successfully Launching Your Co-Taught Year – Glynis Shulters

The first weeks of Co-Teaching set the tone for the entire year. In this practical session, explore a launch framework built around clear roles, shared responsibilities, and co-created norms that keep partnerships running smoothly when the school year gets hard. Discover get-to-know-you activities, role-and-responsibility templates, and norm-setting protocols used by successful Co-Teaching partnerships. Whether you are starting fresh or resetting mid-year, you will leave with a concrete plan for building a partnership grounded in trust and clarity.

D-4: Incorporating Movement Into Your Co-Teaching Without Creating Chaos – Cindy Jones

In this active session, you will learn how to leverage the Co-Teaching model to incorporate movement with simple structures and quick transitions to keep students on-task. Learn how two teachers can easily integrate needed brain breaks, structured activity, and movement to increase student energy and gain focus and attention. Numerous kinesthetic strategies for all grades will be presented.

D-5: The Power of Student Choice in the Co-Taught Classroom – Petra Nelson

Make the choice to discover the best ways to create opportunities for student choice. Participants will learn how to support student choice by empowering them to make a more positive learning environment for themselves. Anchor routines that promote high student engagement will be shared.

D-6: The Four Types of Co-Planning: A Framework Beyond the Weekly Lesson Meeting – Glynis Shulters

Most Co-Teachers think of co-planning as that weekly meeting to map next week's lessons. But that is only one piece. This session introduces a framework of four co-planning types that work together: Big Picture (beginning-of-year and unit-level), Lesson Level (weekly), Just-in-Time (when time is short), and In-the-Moment (the real-time adjustment during instruction). Explore when each is needed, how much time each requires, and how they layer into a sustainable system. Leave with templates and routines you can implement immediately.
