Practical Ideas and Strategies

School librarians are no longer just the “keeper of the books.” They are now considered academic collaborative instructors and expert professional development leaders for developing 21st Century competency skills with students and teachers. In this NEW, timely, highly practical seminar, Linda Dougherty will share how to create an effective, multi-faceted exemplary school library program. Linda will share proven ways to design creative collaborative projects, leverage social media and better advocate for your students and your school library. Linda will share practical ways to make the best use of the latest ed tech tools no matter what your day with students looks like. In addition you will explore NEW trends such as curating, social and emotional learning, video instruction, podcasting, virtual tours, and more with hands-on exploration time.

You will leave Linda's seminar with a detailed digital handbook and access to online resources to advance your school library program to the next level.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Linda Dougherty

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

Linda J. Dougherty is an award-winning library media specialist and an outstanding library and educational technology conference presenter. She currently serves as the ISTE Librarian Network Committee as Communications Chair. She has presented at state and international conferences (ISTE Librarian Digital Playground) on tech applications, teacher collaboration, information literacy, digital citizenship, and social media networking for school librarians. She is the author What's NEW for SCHOOL LIBRARIES: Best NEW Tools, Resources and Strategies for Creating an Exemplary SCHOOL LIBRARY Program, the comprehensive resource handbook each participant will receive at the seminar.

Linda is known for her innovative, practical ways for making the most out of the resources you have. Join Linda for a day filled with proven, easy-to-implement ideas that will make your library programs more effective.

Dear Colleague:

We are looking into a changing future for our schools. What will your library look like in the next few months or next year? Do you need ideas on how to support your buildings instructional goals while keeping your school library as a recognized, valuable part of learning for your students? Are you overwhelmed with how to add new trends while keeping the best practices that work for your school? I totally understand your concerns on where to start from my years as a district library chair plus high school and elementary librarian positions. Keeping up with the changes in school libraries today means I'm always learning and sharing. Let me share with you the very latest resources needed to create the best school library program in step-by-step guided seminar.

During our time together, I will offer you practical, hands-on guided sessions during the day to answer your questions for your changing library program. We will take time to share with each other best practices that are working now and learn about new ideas to take back to your schools. I plan on taking you step-by-step on outlining and building a library program that will meet your needs for now and the future. By the end of our fast moving day, you will have many innovative ideas, as well as a fresh perspective on how you can make these tools and strategies work for you.

Just so you will have everything you need when you finish your day, I have also created a digital tote bag to accompany the seminar and handbook, so that you won't have to type in the URLs. Your online handbook will also be available to review seminar ideas. Best of all, as I find new tools, or old ones disappear, you will still have the best resources in your digital folders. In addition, I am always available to you through email, to provide support after the seminar and to answer any questions.

Join me for this fast-paced, idea-packed day as we discover together all the exciting resources to enrich your school library programs. Whether your school is in-person, online or in a hybrid learning format you'll leave with numerous ideas you can use right away.

Sincerely,

Linda J. Dougherty

P.S. As a veteran school librarian, I understand the extra effort it requires to take time away from your library, I promise you that our day learning together will be well worth your time and effort to attend.

"You will leave with many innovative ideas and a fresh perspective on how you can make these tools and strategies work for you."
