Practical Ideas and Strategies

Do you have students who present challenging behaviors that disrupt the flow of your in-person or online classroom and the learning of others? Do some of these behaviors include tattling, screaming, roaming, blurting out, excessive talking, tantrums, and even outright refusal? Of course the answer is yes! While the percentage of students who engage in these types of disruptive behaviors may be small, the impact on the entire class can feel and be much more significant. Linda Davidson, outstanding presenter and behavior intervention specialist, has designed this NEW seminar to give you practical solutions to teach online or in-person the skills that will help your students be successful, both socially and academically. You will learn dozens of strategies to use immediately to reach your students who lack the skills to follow directions, share, take turns, stay focused, and remain calm in stressful situations. Ideas for simple, yet highly effective visual cues, ways to talk about behavior and thinking and positive intervention strategies to use when you need to address problem behaviors, will all be given.

You won't want to miss this strategy-packed day filled with practical and developmentally appropriate ways to decrease behaviors that disrupt learning and increase the skills students need to be successful in school.

A Message From Your Seminar Leader, Linda Davidson

'... I will present you with various practical and easy-to-implement strategies to stop the cycle of repeated attention-getting behaviors that interfere with productive class activities and learning.'

Dear Colleague:

My bet is that we have a lot in common. I can visualize your classroom — in-person or online — full of young, eager learners. I imagine you are passionate about making an optimum day of learning for each of them. Today's young learner, however, comes to us with a wide range of experiences and behaviors that can impede their social development, learning and disrupt valuable class time for all learners. They may not follow directions, take turns, keep their hands to themselves or they cry, scream, and run around or out of the classroom. Strategies that you have successfully utilized in the past may not be working with these students.

During our day together, I will present you with various practical and easy-to-implement strategies to stop the cycle of repeated attention-getting behaviors that interfere with productive class activities and learning. We will explore specific ways to use visual and auditory cues, transition routines, strategies to teach students to regulate their thinking, emotions and behavior, as well as how to increase your young students' ability to focus and stay engaged whether you are teaching in-person or online. We will examine what to do during and after a tantrum to defuse the situation and reduce re-occurrences.

I am excited to give you a toolkit filled with strategies to help you and your students develop the skills and behaviors necessary to be successful inside and outside the classroom. All of this and more in an engaging, multi-media, fast-paced day!

Sincerely,

Linda Davidson, Ph.D.

P.S. Be prepared to leave with dozens of practical solutions to develop social skills that help young children respond in more appropriate and acceptable ways in the classroom setting.

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

Linda Davidson is a highly experienced educator, sought-after consultant and national presenter. She has worked in the field of education for over 35 years in a variety of roles including behavior interventionist and special educator in preschool-second grades working with students who exhibit difficult behaviors that prevent them from learning and socializing appropriately with others. Linda's extensive experience provides a practical perspective for teaching students who have attention-seeking behaviors and self-regulation deficits including impulsivity, lack of focus and an inability to think and plan actions, which often lead to tantrums. She brings a unique skill set in working with students who have behavior challenges needing individual behavior plans.

She is the author of Decrease Attention-Getting and Tantrum Behaviors: Practical Solutions and Strategies (Preschool – Second Grade), the extensive digital resource handbook that every participant will receive at the seminar. Her fast paced, hands-on seminars will help you work with students who have difficult and challenging behaviors. You won't want to miss this seminar where Linda will answer your questions and provide solutions to addressing your students' most challenging behaviors!
