A Message From Seminar Leader, Petra Nelson

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

PETRA NELSON is a highly experienced special education teacher and national presenter. With over 30 years of grades PreK-12 experience, Petra has worked in self-contained, resource and co-taught special education settings. She has worked with thousands of teachers and administrators in all areas of special education, including specialized instruction, behavior support, inclusive practices, transition programs, differentiation, multi-tiered systems of support, administrative procedures and co-teaching implementation. Petra knows firsthand the challenges facing special educators and is passionate about providing real, practical, high-leverage strategies for helping students with special needs make maximal gains. Petra is also the author of, Maximize Positive Outcomes for Your Students with Special Needs: The Best High-Leverage Practices, the extensive digital resource handbook each participant will receive at the seminar.

You will leave this seminar re-energized and equipped to maximize positive outcomes for your students with special needs. The emphasis will be on practical approaches that are highly effective and impactful, while also efficient, saving valuable teacher time.

Dear Colleague:

In my years as a special educator I've learned that teaching students with special needs is not easy! We are charged with supporting rigorous instruction that provides access and accelerates learning. But given the ever-increasing demands on our time and resources, we want and need approaches that are powerful, proven and impactful, while also being efficient in relation to our time investment. I am excited to share with you the best high-leverage practices I have found to be effective in maximizing positive outcomes for students with special needs.

During this unique seminar, my goal is to provide you with numerous high-leverage strategies you can immediately incorporate in your practice to increase the impact of SDI across all educational settings – whether you are teaching at school or online. The emphasis will be on practical, highly effective and impactful approaches that are also highly efficient, saving you valuable teacher time. Actively engage in strategies designed to enhance and strengthen your practice as a special educator. Accelerate positive outcomes for students with special needs. Increase students' active engagement and learning. Help students drop a fixed mindset and adopt a growth mindset. Learn timesaving strategies to focus, drive and increase the impact of your specially designed instruction, and much, much more!

Join your colleagues and me in this fast-paced day designed specifically for special educators. You will leave this live online seminar excited, refreshed and ready to implement these high impact practices and ideas to make a marked difference in the lives of the students you serve. We will discuss real life examples, and I will share many outstanding high-leverage strategies you can add to your instructional toolkit immediately to maximize positive outcomes for your students with special needs.

Sincerely,

Petra Nelson, Ed.D.

P.S. You will leave this live online seminar with a toolbox full of practical high-leverage practices that will support your students with special needs across all educational settings.

"I am excited to share with you the best high-leverage practices I have found to be effective in maximizing positive outcomes for students with special needs."
