Practical Ideas and Strategies

Today, more than ever, mental health issues are surfacing with serious implications for individual students as well as the entire student body. School nurses are in a unique position to play an active role in mental wellness promotion, mental health screening and early intervention programs in the school setting.

This seminar has been developed specifically to equip you, the school nurse, with the information, resources and strategies you can use in your schools to better address mental health issues. Highly experienced school nurse and national trainer, Vickie Beckwith, will spend the day helping you prepare and plan for mental health first aid, work with students in need, and recognize symptoms and signs of depression, anxiety and other behavioral and mental health issues. She will share numerous resources, strategies, tips and practical ideas she has gathered throughout her extensive school nursing experience that will increase your knowledge and confidence in supporting students and schools facing potential mental health issues.

You will discover practical ways to communicate more effectively with students, teachers and parents. In addition, you will gain insight and strategies that will enable you to more comfortably support students with behavioral health issues.

You'll leave this seminar with an extensive resource handbook as well as dozens of ideas you will be able to use immediately to enhance your practice as a school nurse in addressing the mental health issues in your schools.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Vickie Beckwith

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

VICKIE BECKWITH not only brings over 25 years of practical school nurse experience to her seminars, but also a passion and enthusiasm for the valuable and critical role school nurses play in schools, especially as it relates to mental health issues.

She has implemented numerous, innovative programs to improve student outcomes and has served as a mentor for new school nurses for over a decade, including being a preceptor for BSN students completing their public health rotation in the school setting. She has been a frequent presenter at NASN national meetings, as well as local/state in-service programs. Vickie is the author of SCHOOL NURSES: Best Practices for Addressing Mental Health Issues in Your Schools (Grades K-12), the extensive resource handbook you will receive, and has also authored many articles, most recently a feature article in NASN School Nurse on motivational interviewing.

Using her own practice with the work of school nursing's best resources, Vickie provides tips, tools and strategies for dealing with mental health issues. You will leave with strategies and ideas you can immediately use to positively impact the social-emotional well-being of the students you serve and reduce the barriers to mental health care.

Dear Colleague:

Behavioral and mental health issues in school-age children are becoming increasingly common, especially during the COVID 19 pandemic. As a school nurse, you can play a key role in positively impacting the social-emotional well-being of students and reduce barriers to mental health care.

School nurses can make a huge difference! Join me in this hands-on seminar and learn why and how to respond to the mental health issues in your schools. I will share numerous strategies, techniques and resources that not only achieve better outcomes but will also reduce your stress in handling difficult situations.

I have developed this highly engaging, interactive seminar to help you be better prepared for mental health issues and concerns that occur in our schools today. I will give you tips, tools and strategies to:

- Better understand and assist students suffering from mental health concerns
- Identify the key issues impacting student mental health
- Demystify and lessen the stigma associated with mental health problems
- Deal with frequent visitors to the school nurse
- Prevent and intervene with bullying
- Address suicide
- Use Motivational Interviewing to engage with students and facilitate change

Join me and other school nurses for an engaging, fast-paced day and take home practical information you can use immediately in your school nursing practice to better address mental health issues in the schools you serve.

Sincerely,

Vickie Beckwith

Vickie Z. Beckwith, RN, MSN, PHN

P.S. You will receive an extensive resource handbook covering all of these topics, and more!

"I have developed this highly engaging, interactive seminar to help you be better prepared for mental health issues and concerns that occur in our schools today."

What Your Colleagues Say About Vickie Beckwith

"Nurse Beckwith is well versed and informative. It is always reassuring the hear that all school nurses face many of the same challenges."

Gwen Steiner, School Nurse

"Great seminar and presenter – I didn't think you could cover so much material in a one-day seminar. Vickie is very knowledgeable. Her expertise in her various specialties was obvious and appreciated. Thank you for sharing your experience and wisdom with us!"

Delma Perez, School Nurse

"Vickie really made her material clear and thorough. I would definitely take another seminar with her. Thank you, Vickie, for sharing your experiences!"

Aleyda Berrelleza, School Nurse

"Perfect timing for me to attend this seminar as I'm a new high school nurse. The tips, content and resources provided give me ease as to my interactions with students moving forward."

Evette Valentin, School Nurse

"This is just what I was looking for. A realistic presentation and discussion around mental health issues impacting access to education."

Pamela Branciforte, RN
