Practical Ideas and Strategies

Every school nurse plays a critical role in the healthcare of their schools. As an essential member of your school's pandemic response team, you may be wondering, "How best can I support my students, staff and community in this pandemic?" VICKIE BECKWITH has answers. In this NEW, timely seminar, you will learn how your role has changed, the strategies needed to successfully navigate this pandemic and the practices you can put into place as your school pivots between traditional, school-based learning and the virtual environment found during a "Stay-at-Home" order. Join Vickie to better understand the current guidelines as laid out by NASN, CDC, WHO, and more. Vickie's practical approach will empower you to implement the strategies needed by your school in manageable, responsible ways. Health and safety is our current priority. In this seminar, gain the critical tools needed to achieve the greatest success.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Vickie Beckwith

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

VICKIE BECKWITH not only brings over 25 years of practical school nurse experience to her seminars, but also a passion and enthusiasm for the valuable and critical role school nurses play in schools. She has implemented numerous, innovative programs to improve student outcomes and has served as a mentor for new school nurses for over a decade, including being a preceptor for BSN students completing their public health rotation in the school setting. She has presented for NASN and is the author of SCHOOL NURSES: Best, Up-to-Date Critical Strategies to Address COVID-19 and Related Issues (Grades K-12), the extensive digital resource handbook you will receive. Using her own practice with the work of school nursing's best resources, Vickie provides tips, tools and strategies for managing this pandemic. You will leave her seminar with a renewed enthusiasm and energy for your job as a school nurse!

Dear Colleague:

School nurses play a vital role in the struggle on how best to manage the COVID-19 crisis in schools. I have created this program to help you address the challenges we are currently facing. This program will identify best practices, guidelines and strategies to meet the needs of students and their families in times of a pandemic. You will learn practical approaches for day-to-day operations, community outreach, strategies to stay informed as well as exploring new ways to address trauma. Get tips and strategies from evidence-based models to help you build a safe, supportive environment enabling staff, students and families to move forward in a positive manner.

Join me and other school nurse colleagues to share stories and gain insight into what will help you become more successful and less stressed during these unique circumstances. Discuss concerns and standards for a safe practice. Learn how to avoid feeling overwhelmed and burned out. Take back up-to-date recommendations, strategies and action items you can use immediately. My hope is that this program will help you feel refreshed, confident and ready to meet our new challenges.

Sincerely,

Vickie Beckwith

Vickie Beckwith, RN, PHN, MSN

P.S. I know how valuable your time is. This seminar will focus on PRACTICAL ways to support you!

'This program will identify best practices, guidelines and strategies to meet the needs of students and their families in times of a pandemic.'
